

Dear Employees:

Professional building cleaners have played an important role in the fight to curb the coronavirus pandemic since the spring of 2020. By keeping schools, offices, nursing homes, and healthcare facilities clean and hygienic, you all do your part to help with the health of many people across our country. Thank you!

Have you had the chance to get vaccinated?

Scientists all over the world agree that vaccines are the only effective weapon against the pandemic. The more people are vaccinated, the sooner we will be able to return to normal.

Just under 60 percent of people in our country have been fully vaccinated. This is good, but with fall and winter coming, it isn't enough. On top of that, coronavirus tests will no longer be free of charge for unvaccinated people starting in mid-October 2021.

There is enough vaccine available for our country's entire population. If you have concerns, detailed consultation is available before you are vaccinated. Your employer is also happy to answer any questions you may have.

According to all of the findings thus far, there are no serious risks or side effects associated with vaccination. On the contrary: getting vaccinated is the only way to protect yourself against this insidious new virus, which can cause severe symptoms, long-term effects, and even death.

But getting vaccinated doesn't just protect you. Above all, it also protects your children, other relatives and family members, friends, colleagues, and other members of your community.

Getting the vaccine is the responsible thing to do – for yourself, for your family, for our society.

Please get vaccinated!
